

S. Honcharuk, L. Belkin

Transformation of the principles of administrative procedure in the administrative proceedings

In this paper, based on the current national legislation, taking into account the specifics of a particular transformation the authors study principles of administrative procedure in administrative proceedings, their system and content.

The legal principles generally are understood as the fundamental, guiding ideas, the basic assumptions and patterns upon which certain legal activities and legal phenomena are based. Administrative-procedural principles can be determined as a basic guiding idea on which the administrative and procedural activities as to the consideration and resolution of specific individual administrative cases in public administration are based.

Key words: administrative procedure, administrative proceedings, the principles of law, administrative law principles.